Soap and Water
Rot Your Rugs
If you have valuable rugs or carpets do not make the mistake of scrubbing them with soap and water. The water soaks in and ruins the backing and the rug or carpet wears and rumples as a result. Beating rugs has the same effect, but is not so injurious, for while it breaks the backing it does not rot the warp. Experts whose sole work is the care of expensive rugs use Olenite to keep them fresh and clean. Olenite restores the colors to their original beauty and brightness, and at the same time repairs the natural oil in the fibres so that the life of the rug is lengthened. Olenite is very easy to use. Just brush over the surface of the rug with a soft brush and you will be astonished that so little labor produces such splendid results.

You can buy Olenite from any first-class druggist. It comes in an air-tight container at 50c. enough to restore the colors in the carpets and rugs of two rooms of ordinary size.

Notre Dame News

This evening at 8 o'clock the Glee club of the university will appear before the students in Washington hall. This is the first time that the club has appeared at home on the stage since the trips made during the past three months. The final appearance of the club will be a part of the commencement program. A trip through the west has been mapped out by Ward Parrott, the director, and put before railroad officials in Chicago. Owing to the crowded conditions in Washington hall it will be necessary to procure a ticket of discipline. In order to be admitted to the hall, guests from the city have also been requested to enter the theater by the side door leaving the main entrance for students.

The regular program which made the club a success in Indianapolis will be rendered here tonight.

The decision of the judges was unanimous in favor of the Philosophers in the annual debate between the lawyers and the freshmen four-year men held in Washington hall last evening. The negative side was composed of Francis McGrain, Albert O'Sullivan and Francis King. The judges of the debate were Rev. Michael Quinlan, Rev. William Bolger and Prof. Grasso. Competitive drill in the minims department was held yesterday afternoon on the minims campus under the direction of Capt. R. R. Stogsdal and Sgt. G. A. Campbell. Today, the Sorin cadets and minims will enjoy an outing at Zettler's grove under the supervision of Brother Cajetan, and Monday they will give an exhibition drill at St. Mary's academy for the sisters and students. On Tuesday they will take part in the drills at the university but will not enter the parade in South Bend.

It is planned to get a special section of Notre Dame men at the camp. So far the following have signed: Walter L. Clements and Edward Marcus of South Bend, Eugene Carroll, Marcelius Cramer and Joseph Smith. It is expected that many of the cadets living in Indiana will attend the camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

JURY COSTS $257 FOR NINE VICE HEARINGS

It cost the county just $257.50 for jurors to hear the nine indictment cases returned through the investigations of the Keller administration sleuths, Bert Olmstead and Charles Disher.

In this lot there was one conviction, a fine of $45 and costs, making it $61. This was the only recompense the county received from fines.

It is estimated by competent authorities that the investigation of the Keller sleuths will, in the event that the majority of the cases are tried, exceed $1,000.

DR. WAITE SOON TO KNOW HIS FATE

insane asylum as long as he lived. Dr. Karpus declared that while moral imbeciles had no moral sense, they appear like rational men. He said he believed criminals should confess their crimes because they owed it to society to do so.

"Do you think the fact that Waite's great aunt was insane away back in 1870 had anything to do with the killing of Peck?" he was asked.

"I don't know," was the reply. "I don't know what kind of a lunatic she was."

Found Writing Poem.

Dr. Diefendorf said that when he first examined Waite on May 13, at the Tomb, he found the defendant composing a poem on "Love." Waite told him, he testified, he loved poetry, but knew the names of no modern poets and admitted that the only books he had were those in an old dental library he had bought for $45.

"Life is one hollow, miserable shell," the dentist told him, Dr. Diefendorf asserted.

"What makes you unhappy?" the doctor asked Waite.

"I don't know," the defendant replied.

"Have you had disappointments in love?"

"No, I don't believe I ever loved," Waite answered.

"Not even Mrs. Horton?"

"I fear that is a temporary matter. Doctor, I don't want to be considered insane. I know what I have done and know I shall be punished for it," the witness declared Waite told him.

Lacked Feeling.

"Waite said his degenerate habits, he thought, had brought about a lack of feeling in him," the alienist testified.

"This and his weakness for women were changing him. He added that he had a 'buzzing noise' in his head and said finally 'It's no use. I can't understand.'"

"He said he practiced medicine for the sole purpose of learning how to get rid of people," Dr. Diefendorf declared. "He told me that when Mrs. Peck died he took $30 out of her purse on the dresser in her room."

Detailing a conversation with Waite after his trial had begun, Dr. Diefendorf said:

"Waite told me that he liked pretty girls; that he had tried to flirt with a beautiful girl in the courtroom but that he could not catch her eye."

The alienist asserted that as far as he was able to determine the defendant had "no feeling of sorrow, no feeling of shame, no strength of will."

In his opinion, the witness declared, Waite did not know his act was wrong.

He said he made up his mind Waite was insane during his first examination of him.

At the close of Dr. Diefendorf's cross-examination, Walter R. Deuel, counsel for the defense, announced that he rested and court was adjourned until Saturday morning.
